

Never before has the present, the Now, been so

"p e a i u
r c r o s"

Real virtual
The physical, the void
The human, the humanoid
The human animals

Memory. History. Forgetting. Sight is short.

The ice is melting.

"We live in an age of increasing complexity and uncertainty."

oh.

Art Criticism Linguistically, art is a word.

Sound art - kkkkkk p kkkkkk b b kkkkkk
Rooster - b b pkkkkjjj flap flap flap

Art Writing. I am Writing Art I am Writing Art I will not make any more referential Art. What about this font?

Politics. Swarm intelligence? Swarm stupidity? Swarm.

Nature. Soon there will be no waves!

The bear is swimming in silence.

Memory. History. Forgetting. Sight is short.

Do not sit around and wait, predict instead!
the FUTURE.
Bleep. Bleep. Bleep. Bleeeeeeeeeeee...

The bear has drowned.

...eeeeeeeeeeeeee...

"We can only compare the Now to what has been partly or largely forgotten. No wonder we think the Now is so important."

oh.

Now a moment in time towards which meaning gravitates, causing large scale confusion / anxiety / crisis /

Crisis Embrace it. It means you care.

...eep. Bleep. Bleep.

The bear is still alive. !!!STILL ALIVE!!!

Time is large (as large as you can remember)
It loops around through itself
splits and joins and stretches out

When you go, everything goes with you (Time included)
We all have Terracotta Armies.

Now, more than ever... (Ever, never more than now.)

Nature no bees! nanobees, babees.
Adults make babies.
Babies make adults.

Eventually babies make babies (adults make adults) (aphids make aphids)

Entropy love makes more love where is it all going?
It's beyond control!

flap

Did you see that? A butterfly flapped its wings! Now What!?
Now exciting times

The polar bear has given birth to a butterfly

oh?

Precariousness the Now is as thin as butterfly wings - flap flap flap

Memory. History. Forgetting. Sight is short.

"I'm not sure what to make of it. Conceptually it was quite interesting."